Newly Organized Grand Jurors' Association Held Meeting Monday

Members Listened To Address by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray and Discussed Matters Pertaining to Their Organization.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Association Votes To Hold Its First Annual Banquet Probably In Early Part of November.

The supervisors room at the court house was filled Monday evening when the newly formed Grand Jurors' Association of Ulster County, including many prospective members, met and discussed matters pertaining to their organization, heard an address by District Attorney Murray and made plans for their first annual banquet. Former grand jury members from nearly every town in the county were present when President Robert W. Flemming of Kingston called the meeting to order shortly after 8 o'clock and at the close of the session it was reported that already the association had enrolled 64 members.

The association was organized at a meeting held at the court house July 16, its organization being a direct result of action taken at the meeting of the May grand jury, following a suggestion by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray. Officers elected at the first meeting, in July, were Robert W. Flemming of Kingston, president; Alfred Markle of Kerhonkson, vice president; Henry G. Macholdt of Kingston, secretary-treasurer. At that time the present and all past district attorneys of the county were made honorary members of the association. William P. Glase, grand jury stenographer, was also made an honorary member. Dues for the association were fixed at $2 a year, which also includes admission to the annual banquet which will be one of the features of the organization.

At the opening of the session Monday evening Secretary Macholdt read a letter from the New York County Association, which has a membership of 1,800 and which was formed in 1913. It stressed among other things the failure to secure what were deemed necessary laws to control crime and the work that could be done by grand jurors' associations in furthering such legislation.

District Attorney Talks

District Attorney Murray, who was present, was called upon and addressed the meeting, his remarks being greeted with hearty applause. He told the members that he thought that their organization could do a lot of good, not only by the creation of good-fellowship and the friendly feeling that would follow their meeting together once or twice a year, or perhaps oftener, but by the work they could do towards strengthening the grand jury system and the administration of law. He said that the New York Association had exerted a wonderful influence and he gave that Association much credit for the securing of the passage of the law which "put teeth" into the slot machine enforcement law. He added that not only could that law be further strengthened but that there were other laws that need teeth put into them.

Mr. Murray mentioned several laws that in his opinion needed strengthening and suggested that the Association take them up for future consideration, saying that he would be glad to put his recommendations in proper form for the members to discuss and act upon.

He did not seem to favor the provision in the slot machine law that left the decision in such cases in the hands of the justices, whereas formerly slot machine cases were brought before the grand jury.

ABC Law Should Be Strengthened
The ABC law was another which the speaker held should be strengthened. He said that regardless of what had been the belief of individuals preceding repeal he felt that all were in favor of enforcing the present law and that those who were not properly licensed should be stamped out. In this connection reference was made to the menace caused by drunken drivers on the highways. Mr. Murray said that under former laws, the Raines law, the Mulian-Gage law and others, these cases were handled by the grand jury. Now, too often, the "good fellow" motive was apt to have its effect, and for fear that the driver might lose his license he was allowed to get off with a small fine, perhaps as low as $10. Formerly, on conviction, fines as high as several hundred dollars were imposed and paid.

Mr. Murray suggested that every possible effort be made to keep the organization non-political so that there could be the utmost of cooperation in its major purpose, the consideration and endorsing of legislation that would aid in the enforcement of law and the stamping out of crime. He also offered the aid of his office in securing the names of members of former Ulster county grand juries, who are eligible for membership in the organization and said that he thought he might be able to secure copies of The Panel, organ of the New York County Association, for distribution among the members of the Ulster county association.

The Association voted to hold its first annual banquet this fall, probably during the early part of November.

WORK PROGRESSING FAST, ONE LANE NEARLY DONE

Work of pouring concrete on the first strip of the Boulevard paving progressed in good shape Monday, about 1,000 feet being laid. ## City's TERA Is New Emergency Relief Bureau

Although Operation Under Supervision of State TERA—Work Started on Furnace Street Today—Employing About 650 Men—Appropriations Cut $4,500 This Month.

The local Emergency Relief Bureau as the local TERA is now known is working about 650 men in two shifts, but as the appropriation of funds from the state TERA has been cut $4,500 for August, it will be necessary to reduce the number of men employed in the works division the latter part of the month.

The local ERB is working under the supervision of the state TERA, but the change in name was made necessary by combining both home and work relief in Kingston.

This morning the work of getting Furnace street ready for a new pavement between Franklin and Henry streets, was started, and as soon as that portion of Furnace street is built, work will be started rebuilding Hoffman street.

Another project started today was the building of a drainage system in Hasbrouck Park, and Wednesday it is planned to place drainage in North street and Delaware avenue.

The laying of water pipe in the Boulevard has been completed, although work is still underway building the necessary retaining walls. Another project that is being pushed is what is known as the Clinton avenue sewer system, and work on building the pumping station in connection with this system will be started within the next ten days.

Rescue Three Adrift Since Last June

Tokyo, Aug. 7. (P)—The rescue of three Americans—two women and a man—who had drifted on the Pacific Ocean in their sailing vessel with its mast broken since June 24 was reported to the United States consulate today.

The consulate was informed that the Japanese surveying ship Koshu called at isolated Frey's Island near Yap July 20 and rescued the three Americans.

They are: William T. Tewaro, a painter. Mrs. Tewaro, a writer. Miss Marion Phillips, a nurse, of Santa Barbara, Calif.

They sailed from San Diego January 3 in a 7-ton pinnace, registry 2920. The mast was carried away. Island natives rescued them from the sea.

The Koshu took the Americans and their vessel to Pelew. The Americans said they wanted to repair their craft and continue on to Manila but that they had only $17.

Wicks Sewage Bill Goes To Governor

The bill introduced by Senator Arthur H. Wicks at the extraordinary session of the state legislature authorizing bonds for sewage disposal in the town of Lloyd passed the Assembly today without opposition and now goes to Governor Herbert H. Lehman, for his approval or veto.

Senator Wicks' bill introduced to help the town of Lloyd in its sewage disposal plan will enable the town to receive Federal aid in carrying out the project for a more healthful condition and more work.

Not Same Sickness
Miss Helen Sickler of Lake Hill asks The Freeman to state that she is not the Helen Sickler who was mentioned as being one of three shoplifters arrested and arraigned before City Judge Callout Saturday.

A committee composed of Henry Macholdt, Edward Fraleigh and Joseph Struble was named to select the late for the banquet and make other arrangements.

Albany, N. Y., August 7 (AP)—Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader of the upper house, today said he intended to make every effort to end the special session of the legislature this week.

He called on all the committee chairmen to hold meetings of their committees tomorrow to clean up the bills before them.

It is understood that Governor Lehman several days ago asked the Democratic leaders to speed up their work. The Democratic leadership last week had hopes of getting through by Wednesday of this week, but the many conflicting issues made this impossible.

In many quarters it is now considered unlikely that the session will end before the middle of next week. "I hope that the chairmen of the various committees will meet tomorrow and clean up their bills so that they will be acted on here this week," Senator Dunnigan said.

Senator William T. Byrne, chairman of the judiciary committee, immediately called a meeting of his committee for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow to consider bills proposing relief for holders of guaranteed mortgage certificates.

Senator Samuel Mandelbaum, chairman of the committee on cities, also called a meeting for 9:30 a. m.

"I want every member to attend his committee meetings on time," Senator Dunnigan said. "I also want every man to be in his seat at 10:30."

"I don't want this Senate to be responsible for holding up adjournment. We should get through here this week."

Many of the legislators have been attending the sessions in the morning and going to the races at Saratoga in the afternoon.

Question of New Taxes Religious Riots Halted Threatens To Prolong Session of Legislature

Republicans Declare They Have No Intention of Discussing The Problem of New Taxes With the Governor Now.

ASK ABOUT DEFICIT
Suggestions Will Be Given, If Governor Proposes Taxes to Wipe Out Present Deficit.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 7 (P)—Political wrangling over the question of new taxes today threatened to prolong the special session of the legislature.

The issue flared up anew last night in the Republican-controlled Assembly when Governor Lehman sent a message to the lawmakers urging the leaders to sit down with him and work out a program to raise money to take care of the proposed $13,346,000 appropriation for state aid to schools.

The Republicans replied that it is the governor's responsibility to suggest new taxes and that they have no intention of discussing the question with him.

Republican floor leader Russell G. Dunmore accused Mr. Lehman of trying to "pass the buck to the legislature."

"I must take issue with that statement," Assemblyman Irwin Steingut, Democratic leader, said. "The governor has never ducked any question."

Assemblyman Harry Reoux, Warren county Republican, said: "We've had a lot of comic messages sent to us during this session, but this one ranks with a full comic supplement of a city newspaper."

The discussion covered the whole field of state finances. The G. O. P. members called attention to the $62,000,000 deficit and asked what the governor planned to do about it.

What About The Present Deficit?
"If the governor will propose taxes to wipe out the $62,000,000 deficit we already face," said Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth, "I will suggest a tax to take care of the $13,000,000 school appropriation."

The Senate held up action on the appropriation, which has already been approved by the lower house. In a formal statement the joint committee of teachers' organizations expressed disappointment in the failure of the governor to call on the Senate for speedy action on the question.

"We cannot but express our disappointment at the reluctance displayed by the governor and his representatives in the Senate to assume the responsible leadership which the cause of state aid so fully merits," the statement said.

"The Porter-Feld bill, so essential to public education in this state, can and must be reported by the Senate leaders. They will do this only when the governor requests it."

We feel confident that the governor will not betray the school children of this state."

Considers Appeal
Elizabethtown, N. Y., Aug. 7 (P)—Hope for a new lease on life still lingered today for Mrs. Anna Angelo, 28-year-old Albany mother of three sentenced to die Thursday night for the murder of her husband. Supreme Court Justice O. Byron Brewster, sitting in session in this little Essex county village in the Adirondacks, had under consideration "for a day or two" the appeal of her counsel, Daniel H. Prior, for a new trial on basis of "new evidence" which he claims might have changed the trial jury's verdict.

Religious Riots Halted By Military Authorities

Twenty-Seven Known Dead Following Riots Between Jews and Arabs in Constantine, Believe 100 Were Killed.

QUIET RESTORED
Funerals Postponed One Day to Prevent Further Outbreaks, High State of Tension Exists.

Constantine, Algeria, Aug. 7 (P)—Religious riots that threatened to become a pogrom appeared to be halted by military occupation of the city today, but it was feared that funerals of some of the 27 known dead might incite Arabs to further violence.

It was estimated that 100 were killed, and 200 were known to have been wounded in three days of killings and burnings, in the course of which Moslems made fierce raids in the Jewish quarter of the city.

The funerals, which it was feared might be a signal for renewal of the fighting, were postponed to tomorrow when the French governor general, Jules Carde, hastening back from a vacation in Paris, will be here to take charge of the situation. Of the 27 known dead 23 are Jews.

Eighty Arrested
Eighty persons have been arrested and authorities continued to pour troops into the city.

An anti-Semitic spirit has long been fermenting among the Arabs, authorities said. The rioting started Friday, and continued Saturday and yesterday until the Constantine garrison, aided by other troops and police and firemen from neighboring cities, gained apparent control today.

All was quiet early Sunday, but Moslems made another charge into the Jewish district after the funeral of Elie Narkoni, president of the Jewish Religious Association. The Moslems carried torches, pistols and knives. Many homes were invaded and several cases of mutilation were reported.

Jews Overwhelmed
The Jews, although they comprise about half the population of 100,000, were overwhelmed. Their efforts to defend themselves by shooting from their homes only added to the fury of the invaders.

French officials insisted the riots are merely an outbreak of anti-Semitic feeling and are not an evidence of political revolt aimed at the French or at Europeans in general. It was asserted that stores with signs indicating they were conducted by Christians were untouched.

Jewish and Moslem communities remained in a high state of tension and it was feared the disorders might spread throughout northern Africa, where for generations religious hatreds alternately have flared up and subsided.

TWO CASES DISPOSED OF IN LOCAL POLICE COURT TODAY
This morning in police court Judge Bernard A. Callout fined Theodore Bell of 411½ Washington avenue $5 when he pleaded guilty to public intoxication. The charge was preferred by Patrolman William Leonard, who arrested Bell Monday night.

Ernest Dunham of 128 North Front street was sentenced to 10 days in the Ulster county jail for third degree assault. The charge was preferred by his wife, Jeannette Dunham, who had him arrested Friday night. She accused her husband of striking her with his fist and slapping her.

FIGHT AMONG GUARD ENDS IN ONE INJURED
Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 7 (P)—Two companies of National Guardsmen turned their bayonets and gun butts on one another in a free-for-all at Camp Smith that led today to an official inquiry.

Hitler Declares Von Hindenburg "Opened the Door" To Naziism

Otto Heads For Italy To Woo A Princess or Try To Become a King

Archduke Is Pretender to Austrian Throne—May See Kingship or Plan Marriage to Youngest Italian Princess.

Brussels, August 7 (P)—The Archduke Otto, claimant to the throne of Austria, left his Belgian exile by automobile today. It was announced that he was headed for Italy to join his mother, the Empress Zita, who has been there for the last three weeks.

Otto's trip was considered by informed quarters to be connected with matrimonial rather than political plans.

He is expected to reach Italy this week-end, driving through Luxembourg to Switzerland. His baggage was sent direct by railroad.

In the last few years, Otto's name frequently has been linked in the suggestions of matrimonial plans for the Princess Maria, the youngest of the four daughters of the Italian royal family. She is now 19, two years younger than Otto, the uncrowned king of Hungary. Reports of their engagement were denied last October.

Whether a marriage to an Italian princess would bring Otto nearer to the throne of his forefathers is a question which arouses much speculation in diplomatic circles here.

Although Italy has taken the lead among European countries in activities to protect Austrian independence, as exemplified by her moving 96,000 troops close to the Austro-Italian border following the assassination of Chancellor Dollfuss, it was recalled that the political leaders of the little entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania—have several times warned that an attempt to restore the Hapsburgs to power would be considered by their countries tantamount to a declaration of war.

Gunfire Breaks Out During "War"
New Orleans, Aug. 7 (P)—Gunfire broke out in the Senator Huey P. Long-Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley "war" early today after a serio-comic show of armed strength for more than a week.

A sentry at Jackson barracks, headquarters of national guardsmen called out on order of Senator Huey P. Long, fired twice at an unidentified man he said was attempting to slip into the barracks. The man escaped apparently unhurt.

The main battleground of the "war," in the heart of New Orleans, remains tranquil.

The guardsmen still are stationed in the registration office, equipped with machine guns, rifles, gas bombs and gas masks.

Mayor Walmesley's forces are concentrated in the city hall, just across a narrow street from the registration office, also heavily armed.

The week-long war is a prelude to the September congressional primary election in which Long and Walmesley are supporting opposing candidates.

William S. Vare Died Suddenly
Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 7 (P)—William S. Vare, Republican national committeeman and for years the colorful leader of the Republican organization in Philadelphia, died suddenly at 11:30 a. m. today at his summer home here.

He was 65 last December. In ill health for the last six years, the former congressman suffered a relapse about a week ago from the heat. This was revealed last night by his son-in-law, Dr. John J. Shaw, who said earlier today he had shown improvement.

Vare suffered a heart attack and died in twenty minutes.

In An Emotional Eulogy At the Bier He Reviews Late President's Life

Funeral Was Simple as Old Warrior-Statesman Wished. But Thousands of Uniforms Gave It a Military Atmosphere.

MASS GATHERING

Entire Nation Paused During Funeral Hour In Farewell Tribute To Its Revered Leader.

Tannenberg, Germany, Aug. 7 (P)—Germany buried Paul Von Hindenburg in a shrine it holds sacred today after Adolf Hitler in an emotional eulogy at the bier said the late president "opened the door" to Nazism.

Brief and simple was the funeral, as the old warrior-statesman had wished, but thousands of uniforms gave it a military atmosphere.

The body of the 86-year-old leader was placed to rest in one of the towers of the national war monument, erected on the scene of Von Hindenburg's great triumph over the Russian army in 1914.

Thousands of mourners were turned away. But the entire nation paused during the funeral hour in a farewell tribute to its revered leader.

Hitler, as on yesterday at a memorial service of the Reichstag, eulogized in glowing terms the man whose power he took over, but he failed to give the expected indications of his future policies.

Von Hindenburg, said Hitler, his voice trembling with emotion, "opened the door to the resurrection of German resurgence, referring to his National Socialist party."

Diplomats and high government officials were among those seated in the black-draped court of the memorial. Everywhere were seen the uniforms of various army detachments, the Nazi Storm Troops, the picked Schutz Staffels and the Stenaim, semi-military organization of war veterans.

The coffin was placed in front of a slender tall cross of bronze. Hitler and the Rev. Mr. Dohmann, Von Hindenburg's army chaplain, were the only speakers.

Reviews his Life
The chancellor, praising the man who served Germany as field marshal when he himself fought as a lance corporal, said: "Twice in the life of a soldier honorable mention came to him alone after a great victory and after death."

Hitler then reviewed Von Hindenburg's eventful life, beginning with his baptism of fire at Konigsgratz and through the war of 1870.

Chancellor Hitler closed his address eulogy with a raised voice trembling with great emotion.

Then came "The Song of The Good Comrade" and played with it was "Deutschland Lied, the Nazi 'Horst Wessel Song,' the air reverberated with the booms of the honor salutes which were fired amidst the strains of the military marches of the regiments with which von Hindenburg had been identified.

Mass Gathering
Uniformed soldiers and diplomats were everywhere inside the monument, turning the mass gathering into a vivid, almost exotic pattern of red, brown, blue, green, grey and black. The representatives of foreign nations were symbols of the tribute of other countries to a man who commanded world interest in life as well as death.

They entered the center of the enclosure in a body. With their plumes and swords, they marched to the bronze cross and stood for a moment with bowed heads while their attaches deposited wreaths. Then they marched, still en masse, back to their places.

The coffin, black draped, was carried to the platform at the start of the program by two colonels, two captains, and a special picked squad of soldiers.

Two battalions of the Reichswehr then entered in columns of six, smartly coo-stepping with their faces turned left toward the coffin in military reverence and salute. They were followed by leaders of regimental flags who marched directly behind the speakers' platform.

Through the solemn host that grew in intensity as Charlain Dohmann began his prayers for the restum could be heard the clear, penetrating sound of church bells in the distance.

Hitler was attired, as at the Reichstag services Monday noon, in a brown Nazi uniform. Immediately following his brief address, the chancellor walked behind the coffin as it was slowly lifted and carried in procession, with the same guard as before, to its place in the Hindenburg tower.

Returning from the tower, Hitler walked immediately to where Col. Oskar Von Hindenburg, the field marshal's son, the colonel

Copernicus and Galileo, the Early Astronomers

Copernicus preceded Galileo as the founder of modern astronomy, showing that the sun rather than the earth is the center of our planetary system. He feared the criticism and hostility of the church for he had been accused of proceeding in a task opposed to the scriptures. When his work explaining his theories and discoveries appeared, it was dedicated to the pope. In the hope of getting the sanction of the church, but Copernicus died suddenly soon after receiving the first printed copy. He was not punished on account of his doctrines, but both Catholic and Protestant authorities, with some exceptions, condemned them as unscriptural.

Galileo, 70 years later, became an ardent propagandist of the Copernican theory and this brought him into conflict with the church authorities. In March, 1616, the Catholic congregation condemned all books advocating the Copernican system as a fact, not merely as a theory. Galileo, who had promised to teach it no more, was brought before the Inquisition and after a long trial was ordered to renounce his scientific theory and was sentenced to an indefinite term of imprisonment. This was not strictly enforced, as he was allowed to remain in the homes of his friends.

AN IMPORTANT Announcement WE HAVE WAITED TO MAKE

DURING all the flurry of the past year of competitive so-called "new" gasolines, the American Oil Company has had a very well-defined policy which has been publicly expressed from time to time:

That when the American Oil Company had a really new and different gasoline—a product that properly justified being called "new"—it would be introduced as such to the motoring public—not before.

The Time Has Now Come

The time has now come for an announcement second only in importance to our development and introduction about two decades ago of AMOCO-GAS—the original special motor fuel, which revolutionized the whole gasoline and automotive industries.

The world's newest, biggest, most modern refining unit has just been completed! It's the American Oil Company's new refinery at Texas City, Texas.

As a result, the American Oil Company is able to offer a brand new, different gasoline—made by a new refining principle. A gasoline as new and distinctive as the world's biggest refining unit and a new refining principle can make it!

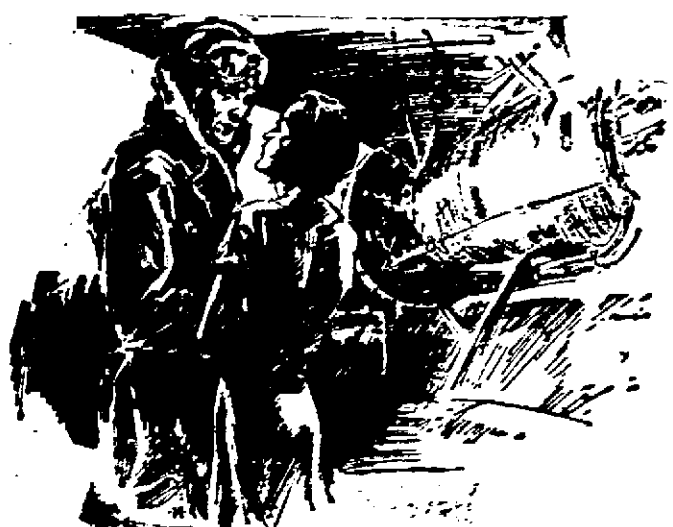

This gasoline is now introduced as "New-Action" Orange AMERICAN GAS—to be sold by the American Oil Company as its regular gasoline at regular gas price.

Actually new and different, "New-Action" Orange American warrants your trial. Thereafter, its superior performance can decide your future use of it.

It's sold out of the Yellow and Black Pump from Maine to Florida.

The position of leadership which the American Oil Company has attained in the industry makes this announcement of a new product a fact of major importance.

OFFICE CAT

And visitors spoil after the first day.

If you want a favor from the judge of the peace the best thing to say is "Hello, Judge."

Janice—So she refused to kiss him on sanitary grounds?

Janice—Yes—until he convinced her that burning kisses would kill her.

The honeymoon is over when he goes hugging like a bear and starts grunting like one.

Mrs. P.—That milk man of ours seems to be getting all mixed up in his deliveries.

Mrs. N.—Doesn't he leave the milk around?

Mrs. P.—Oh, it's not the milk, dear, but three times last week he's delivered the wrong husband.

The sky is very optimistic, pointing out that it is always brighter when it is blue.

Man—Why were you married in an airplane?

Friend—My wife was timid of gliders.

The chap who agrees with his mother-in-law on most things and with his wife on the rest may not have a very good time, but he'll have a happy home.

Major—Care to join us in a little game of poker, Colonel?

Colonel—I don't play poker.

Major—Oh, I'm sorry. I had an idea you did.

Colonel—Ah, I once had that idea myself.

We're all chiefly interested in ourselves. Note how little news you can find in a strange city newspaper.

A visitor at a county fair noticed a man who took ride after ride on the merry-go-round, never once attempting to get off.

Visitor (curiously)—Do you like to ride?

Rider (snapping)—No, but the owner of this thing owes me $5, and this is the only way I can get it out of him.

A pessimist is a man who knows a lot about himself and very little about any one else.

Farmer—I'll give you $5 a month and your board.

Applicant—Ah, eh, eh! What do you think I am, a college graduate?

Sunday papers have become so bulky that one Chicago carrier boy has given up the work to take up piano moving.

A pretense of indifference to success is usually an attempt to disguise a sense of failure.

When a man boasts that his word is as good as his bond, you'd better take his bond, friend.

The naval board was examining young applicants for appointment to naval college.

Admiral—Well, and what must an officer be before he can have a funeral with full naval honors?

Applicant—Dead.

Efficiency in government at minimum cost is what the people are demanding. This they are not getting.

Instructor—Who invented the steam engine?

Student—Don't you know that? Why, any fool can tell you.

Instructor—That's why I asked you.

Other people have prejudices: we of course have convictions and opinions.

GAS BUGGIES—There's Always a Reason.

At The Theatres

Today

Kingston: "Here Comes the Navy." All lovers of sea fighting will thrill to the toes over this monster production that puts the United States Navy through its paces before your eyes, and throws in a lot of humor, thrills and romantic situations just as added attractions.

Dramatic, powerful, compelling and somewhat awesome, this naval pageant is the background for a story that stars James Cagney in the role of a tough little gub, whose insubordination and rapid temper keep him in trouble from the opening gun. To add to his troubles, one of the officers is after his girl, and although these two men are friends under the skin, they spend most of their time slugging each other when in a position to do so. All of which all makes for action that is not dainty but fairly brisk. But the real thrill in this show is the Navy itself. It's a treat to see the full force of the United States sea power parading before your eyes. Pat O'Brien, George Stuart and Frank McHugh are in the cast.

Orpheum: "Change of Heart." One of the better movies is this story of four young people who graduate from college, each with a definite idea of what life holds and how to attain it. Each tries to carve out a career, but life somehow seems to frustrate and retard the goal each seeks. The main characters in the show, two boys and two girls, are played with zest and understanding by Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Ginger Rogers and James Dunn. It is a picture both interesting and worth seeing.

Broadway: "The Old Fashioned Way." Small time ham actors and their troubles are laughingly depicted in this comedy drama that brings that master comedian, W. C. Fields into the lime light once again. As Mr. McGonigle, head man of the troupe, Mr. Fields is given full opportunity to display his talents, and he does right well with himself. The talkie is a laugh riot from start to finish, and the star was never better than in the role of the helpless but histrionical leader of the McGonigle Company. Judith Allen, Baby LeRoy, Jack Mulhall and Joe Morrison are in the cast.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Friends of Mr. Sweeney." Charles Ruggles was never better cast than in this slapstick comedy of a cut-up college boy who grows up and becomes a placid, timid editorial writer. But he lets loose one night and the fireworks start early and last late as he tries to make up for his wasted years. Ann Dvorak, Eugene Pallette and Dorothy Tree are in the cast.

Orpheum: Same.

Broadway: "Charming Deceiver" and "Murder on the Blackboard." Mistaken identity is the cause of the first feature, the story of a lannquin who impersonates a famous movie star and has a grand time fooling everybody. Constance Cummings and Frank Lawton head the cast. "Murder on the Blackboard" is a murder tale with much comedy mixed into the evil goings on. The show has rapid action, a clever ending and its full share of suspense. Edna May Oliver, James Gleason and Regis Toomey all have important assignments.

Ibsen's "Ghosts" at Maverick Theatre

"Ghosts," one of Ibsen's most famous plays, a somber and tragic pathological study, is this week's presentation at the Maverick Theatre, Woodstock. The play opens Thursday evening, August 9, and will run through Sunday.

Robert Elwyn, managing director of the theatre, has planned on presenting this play since the opening of the season, and feels that "Ghosts" will be one of the highlights of this year's presentations at the Maverick Theatre.

The play concerns the revelation of the dark and ominous tragedy which lies in the background of the Alving family. Mrs. Alving has fought a courageous battle to keep the knowledge of this tragedy from her young son, but when he returns from abroad after several years, she discovers that the same malign influences are at work in her son as those which defeated her dead husband, and to her it is as if the ghosts of the past had returned.

Robert Elwyn plays Oswald Alving, the young man who is haunted by a threat of insanity and who has returned home hoping for peace and escape from the shadow. Robert Elwyn will give a memorable performance in the role of this desperate and tortured young man. The role is one which calls for psychological insight and understanding, and Elwyn has made an exhaustive study of the characterization that promises a worth while performance.

Velma Royton plays Mrs. Alving, the woman whose valiant effort to down the ghosts of the past forms the background of the play. Velma Royton has done admirable work in other productions of Ibsen plays, notably in the role of Mrs. Elvsted in "Hedda Gabler," which she played in Norwich and Ann Arbor, and also over the NBC network.

Edith Alwater appears as Regina Engstrand, the young girl with whom Oswald Alving falls in love only to have the dead past intervene, and both he and Regina must pay for the tragic destiny which shadows the house of Alving. Stephen Sanders plays Engstrand the carpenter, a sly and cunning peasant who has for long possessed knowledge of one of the secrets of the Alving family. Frank Rothe has an important role as Manders the pastor, Mrs. Alving's friend and business advisor. It is Manders who, through his provincial narrow-mindedness and lack of understanding, is instrumental in revealing the secrets that for years have haunted Mrs. Alving.
